PROGRAM NOTES

Opening Night on Broadway
To begin this evening’s concert, the Wind Orchestra presents music from the Broadway stage. The medley includes recognizable tunes from several successful theatrical musicals. In order of appearance, these songs are from The Producers, Avenue Q, Spamalot, Wicked, and The Lion King.

An American in Paris
Four years after the success of his Rhapsody in Blue in 1924, George Gershwin began work on his tone poem An American in Paris while touring that city and meeting musical luminaries such as Milhaud, Ravel and Poulenc. Upon his return to New York, he made his conducting debut before an audience of 15,000 at Lewisohn Stadium on a program that included both of these works. An American in Paris inspired the 1951 film that featured extended, elaborate dance sequences set to the music of George and Ira Gershwin. The film starred Gene Kelly and Leslie Caron and won the 1952 Academy Award for Best Picture.

Highlights from Hook
John Williams needs little introduction as a favorite composer for such filmmakers as Steven Spielberg and George Lucas. The first of several arrangements of music by this luminary of large-canvas film scoring on tonight’s program, Highlights from “Hook” collects several major themes from the film that starred Dustin Hoffman in the title role and Robin Williams as Peter Pan.

Bayou Breakdown
Brant Karrick was educated at the University of Louisville and Western Kentucky University. He received the Ph.D in Music Education at Louisiana State University. He studied trumpet with Leon Rapier, music education with Cornelia Yarbrough, and conducting with Frank Wickes. His primary composition teachers were David Livingston, Steve Beck, and Cecil Karrick. He currently serves as director of bands at Northern Kentucky University, where he administers the entire band program. including the Symphonic Winds, the Concert Band and the Basketball Pep Band.

Bayou Breakdown was composed for the Wind Ensemble at the University of Toledo. While the melodic material is drawn from a style of jazz heard in and around the Mississippi Delta, the formal structure for the piece originated as an attempt to write in fugal counterpoint similar to that of Johann Sebastian Bach. The composer dedicated this work to Frank B. Wickes, who served as director of bands at Louisiana State University from 1980 to 2010.

All the Best

“All the Best!” These words expressing good fortune are often heard at occasions such as birthdays, or other changes life may bring. Schwarz wrote this exciting piece after receiving a commission from the music association in Richenbach, Germany, who wanted an upbeat concert work to celebrate their anniversary and to serve as a “signature tune” for the band.

Solo Bossa

When Schwarz received a commission from Thomas Beiganz (flugelhorn player with the Brass Band Oberösterreich) to write a piece for his band, it was obvious in which direction this new composition should go. Groovy accents create an exciting contrast to the more flowing, lucid musical elements, while always keeping the flugelhorn in the instrument’s ideal range. Simple improvisations compliment the piece, which also features a catchy tune that stays with the listener long after the performance has ended.

Symphonic Dances from ‘West Side Story’

Symphonic Dances from “West Side Story” was first performed by the New York Philharmonic on an all-Bernstein concert in 1961, four years after the opening of West Side Story on Broadway. The songs of the musical had immediately become popular standards, while at the same time, the dance music had been sophisticated enough to find its way into the concert hall, similar to music of a ballet. Most composers for Broadway were songwriters who did not write their own dance music, but Bernstein, a fully trained composer who had already written two formal ballets, crafted these remarkable dances himself.

Tonight, the Wind Ensemble will perform the following movements from the suite: Mambo, a competitive dance between the gangs; Cha-Cha, when Tony and Maria see one another for the first time; and the Finale, love music and a procession that recalls the ever-popular aria “Somewhere,” but now with a more tragic sentiment.

Strange Humors

Strange Humors represents another of Mackey’s works (after Redline Tango) that has been transcribed for wind ensemble. The first version of the work was a student piece for string quartet and djembe that Mackey wrote while pursuing his graduate degree at The Juilliard School. It was later adapted for use by the Parsons Dance Company, with choreography by Robert Battle. This transcription came at the behest of Richard Floyd on behalf of the American Bandmasters Association. The piece represents a merging of musical cultures — the modal melodies and syncopated rhythms of Middle Eastern music with the percussive accompaniment of African drumming.

At the heart of the work lies the pulse of the djembe, which remains from the original version. The djembe, an hourglass-shaped drum played with bare hands, is a major part of the customs of West African countries such as Mali and Guinea, where djembe ensembles accompany many functional celebrations of society.

The piece opens with a sultry English horn solo, a line laced with Phrygian influence representing the “typical” melodies of the most northeastern parts of the African continent — most notably Egypt, but also parts of the Arabian Peninsula. Later, the saxophones emulate the snaking lines of the English horn. The addition of brass and auxiliary percussion to the original orchestration makes for particular impact during the shout sections of the piece, and the groove of the djembe combined with the quirky rhythms throughout leave an impression that lingers in the listener’s mind long after its conclusion.

Program note by Jake Wallace

‘Walk to the Bunkhouse’ from Suite from ‘The Red Pony’

The Suite from the Red Pony derives from Copland’s score to the 1948 Hollywood film about a boy and his horse on a California ranch. In 1966, Copland transcribed selections from his 1948 orchestral Red Pony Suite for band. The first two movements — “Dream March” and “Circus Music” — depict the boy imagining his pony leading knights into battle, and then performing under the big top. “Walk to the Bunkhouse” portrays the cowhand the boy idolized, while “Grandfather’s Story” accompanies the old man’s tales of his days as a pioneer. The band suite closes with the movie’s opening music, originally titled “Morning on the Ranch.”

The Cowboys

The Cowboys, arranged by Jim Curnow, is a typical example of John Williams’ capacity to enrich a film story with an almost narrative musical score. Through music, we are transported to the Old West and experience the joys and hardships of cowboy life.

Taken from the 1972 motion picture “The Cowboys” starring John Wayne and Roscoe Lee Browne, the music complements the story of a 60-year-old Montana cattleman who enlists (and ultimately mentors) ten schoolboys as cowboys after the regular ranch hands have left with Gold Rush fever. The 400-mile cattle drive provides the boys with a different and harsher schooling as they learn the rigors of the job and have to deal with rustlers. The music conveys the high spirit of wild horses and their taming. Jollity around the campfire is contrasted against the loneliness of the open range. The plains have a beauty, though, which is reflected in the song of a lark. The hard work of the cattle drive, including the fording of the wide, muddy river and dealing with many fears and threats, succeeds in maturing the boys into men.
